The Ad hoc Committee on Family Affordability talked with meetings to gain an understanding of why people come and do not come to Annual Session. We learned the following:

- Friends do not consider money to be the primary reason for not attending.
- Several meetings fully sponsor all of their children to attend Annual Session.
- There is competition for time. Both for taking time off work and visiting relatives.
- Friends wish for more fellowship and less business.
- People appreciate the time to renew the spirit and friendships at AS. Many judge this opportunity more important than participating in the business of NPYM.
- Some meetings that currently have no children expressed a willingness to support children from those meeting that do.

As result of what we learned we recommend the following:
1. That there be one less plenary at Annual Session, allowing more time for fellowship and family time.
2. That individual meetings consider sponsoring all children as a matter of policy, as several meetings currently do.
3. That meetings who have no children and would like to support children in the yearly meeting consider finding a way to do that.

This completes our work. We request that the committee be laid down.

Respectfully submitted,

Committee members
John Allcott
Laura Arcidiacano
Margaret Coahran
John Etter
Meredith Jacobson
Chinda Roach
Sheila Hale and

Tom Rawson, NPYM Presiding Clerk and collaborator